FromCounsel: for leading universities

FromCounsel helps law schools and universities deliver what matters most: better prepared students, more practice-ready learning, stronger employability outcomes and a clear competitive edge.

Our content combines the collective knowledge of leading barristers from top-tier chambers with the experience of FromCounsel's senior knowledge lawyers from highly regarded law firms. This service gives students and academic staff access to legal insight shaped by the practitioners involved in the most important cases and transactions in their field. Unlike traditional legal texts, FromCounsel is a fully maintained service, with content updated daily to reflect legal and market developments.

FromCounsel supports more professionally aligned learning beyond traditional research tools and offers trusted legal knowledge, legislation, news, precedent documents and public markets reporting. We also provide a growing library of 80+ interactive e-learning modules, designed to develop practical legal skills development at scale.

FromCounsel covers UK corporate law, restructuring and insolvency, and employment law, with coverage of further practice areas coming soon.

By making legal education more relevant, practical and valuable from day one, our forward-looking platform for the education sector supports employability, innovation, academic distinctiveness and student recruitment.

Why FromCounsel?

FC Corporate Knowledge with Erskine Chambers is the trusted resource for over 95% of the top 100 UK corporate law firms – from Magic Circle firms to the legal arms of the Big 4, regional firms and in-house teams. Our in-depth Q&A and 'editors' views' are regarded as the gold standard.

The FromCounsel Difference

A stronger student value proposition for your university

Helping students think and work more like lawyers from the start. FromCounsel enables law schools and universities to bridge the gap between academic study and professional practice with trusted legal knowledge, practical drafting support and interactive training that reflects how law is applied in modern practice. The Q&A-based structure reflects how legal issues arise in practice, helping students move from academic understanding to applied legal reasoning.

It helps students build understanding from foundational principles through to the more difficult and unresolved issues that arise in practice.

Developed with rigour - because this is what law firms would expect

The quality of our expertise sets FromCounsel apart. Our content is written and maintained by barristers from the leading chambers in their field, together with senior knowledge lawyers. It is the only resource that gives students and faculty access not just to public-domain law, but to expert insight shaped by the issues leading practitioners encounter in live matters - including unresolved points and matters which are not the subject of reported authority. Users can navigate difficult or unresolved issues with FC's 'editors' views' which are grounded in expert consensus and give reasoned guidance and clear direction.

Outside of the education sector, FromCounsel is used and trusted daily by over 95% of the top 100 law firms.

Differentiate your law school in a competitive market

For universities competing on employability, innovation and academic distinction, FromCounsel offers a clear advantage. It is more than a content subscription: it is a visible investment in curriculum modernisation, student outcomes and professional readiness.

Support academic staff without administrative burden

FromCounsel helps academic staff deliver richer practical learning at scale. Structured legal answers, training modules and drafting resources can support:

- seminars
- independent study
- legal skills development

What fills the learning gap left by GenAI?

As legal tech increasingly automates many of the 'junior tasks' that once underpinned on-the-job learning for trainees and NQs, law schools and universities face growing pressure to develop commercially aware, practice-ready graduates.

FC Education gives students access to the same trusted resources used by firms while teaching students to think like a practitioner from day one.

Prepare the next generation of legal professionals:

- ✓ FromCounsel gives students more than theory. It helps them build confidence in applying legal principles, not just memorising them.
- ✓ The result is more practice-ready graduates, stronger employability outcomes and a more compelling student value proposition.
- ✓ With strong alignment to SQE readiness, legal technology and practical skills development, FromCounsel supports the next generation of legal professionals with learning that is credible, current and closer to the realities of practice.
- ✓ In a world increasingly shaped by legal technology and Gen AI, the quality of outcomes depends on the quality of the underlying legal information. FromCounsel helps universities give students access to a source that is trusted, current and built for professional use.
